Citation and Cross-Citation Policy

Purpose of the Policy - The ECONOMICS Innovative and Economics Research Journal is dedicated to publishing high-quality scientific papers in the field of innovative economics and related disciplines. It is natural for papers to build upon one another and for authors to cite relevant sources from previous issues of the journal or related publications, including the Nova Ekonomija Proceedings.

Principles of Citation - Citations must be thematically justified and based on the scholarly relevance of the source. Authors have full freedom in selecting sources and are not required to cite works from the journal or related publications, except when such citations are scientifically and methodologically necessary. The use of a variety of sources is encouraged, including domestic and international works from relevant scientific journals and conference proceedings.

Cross-Citation Policy - Citing works from related publications, such as the Nova Ekonomija Proceedings, is permitted and welcome when it is based on a genuine connection in topics, methodology, or research findings. The journal applies no formal or informal pressure on authors to include citations from specific sources for the purpose of increasing citation counts. The editorial team and reviewers ensure that all citations in submitted papers are substantively justified and comply with ethical standards (COPE).

Ethical Compliance - This policy is in line with the guidelines of the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE) and with the standards of transparent publishing required by international bibliographic databases, including Scopus.

Transparency - The citation and cross-citation policy is publicly available on the journal’s website and is applied consistently to all papers and authors.
